SALT LAKE'S FIRST NEWSBOY RETURNS

Head of Methodist Conference in Montana.

COMES TO ATTEND REUNION

DEVELOPMENT OF HIS STATE IS REMARKABLE.

Early one rainy May morning 36 years ago, a lad 11 years old trudged down Main street with ten copies of the Salt Lake Herald under his arm. He was the first newsboy in Salt Lake. His cry of 'poipers" and "hextra" was not what it is on the busy street cor-ners today, but he managed to let the few early-morning pedestrians know that there was a real newsboy in town. He sold his first paper to John Lollin, who is still in business at 129 Main street. Mr. Lollin handed the enterprising lad 50 cents, and told him to keep the change. Thus encouraged, Salt Lake's first "newsy" made a success. Two days later he had competition but it proved the life of trade. Salt Lake's first newsboy is now 47 years old and is a minister of the gosyears old and is a minister of the gos-pel in the person of kev. Charles D. Crouch, superintendent of the Yellow-stone district, Montana conference of the Methodist Episcopal church. His district comprises 50,000 square miles, and contains forty churches. He makes his headquarters at Bozeman.

Relative of Maude Adams. Rev. Mr. Crouch and wife are here visiting relatives and friends. Mrs. Crouch is Maude Adams' favorite aunt. They came to attend the family reunion in honor of the presence in the city of the famous actress. For a number of years the Rev. Mr.

Crouch was engaged in the book binding business in Salt Lake. His position of superintendent of the Methodist churches in the Yellowstone district in Montana is an important charge. In point of area it is the largest district the Methodist church

"I am delighted to be in Salt Lake," said Rev. Crouch, "It is good to see and shake hands with old friends. It has been eleven years since I was here, and I am both astonished and gratified when I contemplate the growth and prosperity of Salt Lake.

"Montana is a wonderful state, and the way it is forging ahead is amazing. Homebuilders are flocking into the eastern part of the state by the thousands and new towns are springing up everywhere. In the past four-teen months 34,000 homestead entries have been made upon 5,443,753 acres of splendid agricultural land."

Make Plans for Completion of New Passenger Depot.

Henry J. Schlacks, architect of the Denver & Rio Grande building department, arrived in Salt Lake yesterday from Chicago to look after plans for the completion of the new lepot here. During the afternoon he had a meeting with H. A. Peters. president and general manager of the Eilenberger Construction company which has the general contract for the building, and a number of subcontractors. Chief Engineer Gwyn was also present. After the meeting Mr. Schlacks said that conditions ap-peared to be favorable for the occupancy of the building not later than July 1.

The new Denver & Rio Grande depot is considered one of the finest structures of the kind between Chicago and San Francisco. To complete the building will mean merely the finishing touches and interior decorations. The flower beds surrounding the new depot are being laid out and the new depot are being laid out and plans for extensive landscape garden ing are being carried out.

KIDSSAYCLEVERTHINGS USES CLAW HAMINIEK

THESE Dutch Kiddies in "The Red Mill," which the winners in the Children's Contest, now being conducted by The Herald-Republican are going to see at the Colonial, are enough to inspire a rag doll or a Teddy Bear to make clever remarks.

Tomorrow The Herald-Republican is going to publish a picture of those kiddies just to prove the fact. However, the Children's Contest Editor says that Salt Lake kids don't need any extra inspiration in order to say clever things, and when asked how he knows, he doesn't say a word, but simply points to a big pile of letters containing the clever sayings of several hundred youngsters under 8 years.

If your youngsters are under 8 and have a penchant for saying clever things that make you laugh, you can get into the contest by just telling The Herald-Republican about it.

Here are the terms of the contest: Write out a clever remark or speech not to exceed fifty words, and send to the Children's Contest Editor of The Herald-Republican. Sign your name and address and the child's name and age. As many of the clever sayings as we can find room for will be printed from day to day. The contest will close at noon Thursday, May 12, and on the following day the names and pictures, if we can get them, of the winners, will be published in The Herald-Republican. The child whose speech is adjudged to be the most clever will receive two box seats for The Fed Mill' which comes to the Colonial. The three children whose remarks are adjudged to be the next cleverest, will receive

Small Beetle Destroying Crops Near Murray and Sandy— Loss Will Be Heavy.

The weevil, described as a small beetle, the larvae of which are very destructive to farm crops, is ruining the alfalfa crops of the farmers on the east side of the Jordan river, near ness as may be brought before it, Sandy and vicinity. The destructive work of the weevil has been more noticeable this spring than ever before. Farmers apparently have given up the idea of raising alfalfa and have plowed their fields and turned them over to P. Rowe, Salt Lake; George Jaggers, pasturing purposes. The weevil is something which farmers have not quite been able to eliminate from their

The work of this insect in the country has wrought havoc, despite the try has wrought havoc, despite the fact that almost every kind of an experiment imaginable has been tried, but unsuccessfully. Some farmers are of the opinion that by harrowing the ground early in the alfalfa season that the weevil can be alfalfa season that the weevil can be exterminated. This has been tried, but no good results obtained. It is said that the Agricultural college at Logan is working ceaselessly upon the question of eliminating the destructive beetle, and that the professors in charge are entertaining hopes of success. The farmers near Sandy, in which locality the weevil apparently is doing the most damage, appear to be stumped as to just what course they are to pursue in the future if they intend to mature a crop of alfalfa of any size and make it pay.
